Reduction of Women's High-grade Spring Suits

At About One-third Less
Regular Prices.

$12.75, $16.95, $25.00, $37.50.

Each one of these prices represents a most exceptional value—the garments are about one-third less than real worth. In some instances the reductions are greater. The newest materials and models in strictly tailored, demi-tailored and dress suits—garments that embrace the choicest fashion inspirations of American women. Mostly one-of-a-kind styles and designs in the better class suits, and the lower priced are odd lots and small assortments that we will not reorder again this season.

Tomorrow—Thursday Morning, We Offer a Large Quantity of

Cloisonne and Other Jewelry

At Prices Far Below Regular.

A timely purchase on our part at very deep price concessions makes the occasion one of unusual importance. Dainty, attractive pieces that women will find so necessary just at this season. When obtainable at the very low prices we have marked them, many will avail themselves of the opportunity to buy for future as well as present use. They are the products of one of our best makers, whose output is limited to the making of articles of the better sort, whatever the price may be. The quality is readily apparent in these items, and we have no doubt that this sale will prove as responsive as have the several we have recently held. A part of the assortment is here enumerated. Many one-of-a-kind designs and kinds, hence the advantages of early selection.

AMUSEMENTS

Paulist Choristers in Concert.

The Paulist Choristers of Chicago, who have made fame for themselves in the musical centers of Europe, gave a recital at the Columbia yesterday afternoon, under the leadership of Father William J. Finn, C. S. P., founder and musical director of the organization.

Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French ambassador, who headed the list of nationalities, entertained a box party and in the audience were distinguished prelates, sisters of the Holy Cross and members of other religious orders.

It would be difficult to overpraise singers who won the first prize at the musical festival at Paris in contest with 40 singing societies from all parts of the world. Each solo was given with silver buoyancy and the Gregorian chants were intoned with the union of a splendid whole. Every number on the program received its individual recognition, but Gounod's "Ave Maria" was the most popular. The same composer, with Walter Curran and Master Siddons as soloists, elicited an enthusiasm which captured the two choirs. A group of Belgian Folk Songs, by Gevaert, Waddington's "Salve Regina" and the two arrangements of "Ave Maria" were masterpieces of Fauré and of Grieg, were the conspicuous numbers of the program, which opened with "Victoria," Dubois, and was closed by Gounod's "Praise Ye the Father." The one change was the substitution of the "Lullaby of Life" for the seventh number, "Memories." And the criticism that could be made was the lack of any familiar hymn or ballad to vary the program for the pleasure of every-day music lovers who prefer "tunes" to classic "numbers." Miss Mary Anderson was at the piano, and the Schaeffling, cellist, accompanied Arensky's "Serenade."

"Little Women."

William A. Brady is to present at the Belasco Theater next week Marian de Forest's stage version of Louisa M. Alcott's immortal story, "Little Women," produced under the personal direction of Mr. Brady. The play will be costumed and furnished in the quaint fashion of the early sixties, and is a faithful presentation of the original story, showing Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy, Laurie and the others. "Little Women" is really the life of the Ames Bronson Alcott family. Miss Alcott herself was the original of Jo; Meg was her older sister, Anna; Beth was Elizabeth Alcott, whose death in girlhood cast a heavy shadow over Louisa; Amy March was May Alcott, the artist of the Alcott family, whose early drawings, frescoes and statues are still preserved in the Alcott homestead at Concord, Mass.

Sweet, simple, quaint, refreshing, is this story of a half century ago, and the play is as charming as the book. It is in fact a series of home pictures. All the principal incidents of the story will be shown in the dramatic version. An excellent cast has been selected.

"Little Women" comes to Washington after a long and successful six-month engagement at the Playhouse, New York city.

Return of Helen Keller.

So great was the interest shown in the first appearance of Helen Keller and her equally famous teacher, Mrs. Macy, in Washington that they are announced to repeat their lecture at the Belasco Theater next Sunday evening. The lecture is one of the most remarkable humanly known ever told, and those who heard Miss Keller before realized there could be no stronger example of optimism and courage shown than in this triumph of the human will. "Blindness," said Helen Keller recently, "is thought by those who don't know to be the worst of other senses. That is not so. The habit of patience is the only compensation. The great obstacle to her is the power of the human mind. Helen Keller's patience after hearing her speak, and after learning that she had been blind, deaf and dumb, to her and become a normal part of her life."

"A Royal Family."

"A Royal Family," Capt. R. Marshall's romantic comedy, will be presented at the Columbia Theater next week by the Columbia Players. By a peculiar coincidence the play was the fourth offering of the original Columbia Players just four years ago. On that occasion it was a determining factor in establishing the popularity of Julia Dean, who played the role that will be essayed next week by her charming successor, Helen Holmes. This role of the Princess Angela, only daughter of the French King Louis XIV., was originally played by Annie Russell, when the comedy was first produced at the Lyceum Theater, under the management of Daniel Frohman. Not only as a dramatic offering but in costume and scenic environment the play is a beautiful offering.

Chase's Talking Pictures.

Three extraordinary attractions will distinguish Chase's motion picture exhibition next week. Sunday at 3 p. m. the great kinemacolor play production "Cathleen Hale," from the historical drama by Clyde Fitch, in which Nels C. Rodwin was starred, will be shown on 100 feet of film in three reels, lasting about an hour. The wonderful coloring is given by scope in the uniforms, costumes and scenery of the period. This picturesque colonial drama will continue Sunday and Tuesday. Beginning Monday at 7 p. m., the new Edison talking pictures will be "Votes for Women," representing a meeting of the leading American woman suffragists including Miss Ida Craft, "Gen." Rosalie Jones and other noted advocates, and "The Anniversary of Jerry and Mandy," a comedy picture of the funniest kind. Dramatic and scenic kinemacolor and black and white "first-run" pictures will be shown every day, from 11 p. m. daily, and from 3 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. Sundays.

Casino.

"The Monkey Cabaret," one of the most interesting and laughable animal entertainments in vaudeville and practically a whole show in itself, will be one of many interesting features of the Casino Theater, which will be presented by the Casino Players, a spectacular singing and dancing company, will be presented by Jessie Keller and her company. It is one of the real novelties of the season and comes highly commended by advance notices. Another big offering will be the unique "first-run" picture, "The Getaway," a story of a burlesque band of fly-by-nighters, which will be presented by Dorothy De Lory and company. Other enjoyable features will include the Franks in an exceptional exhibition of head-balancing and acrobatic tumbling, and Van Leys and Williams, a comedy duo.

At a well attended meeting of the Monticomb County Anti-Saloon League, at Bethesda, yesterday afternoon, a resolution by B. H. Miller of Ashton, proposing the election of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan for excluding wines from social functions, was adopted by a large majority.

A license to marry has been issued by the clerk of the circuit court to Thomas G. Hilton of Germantown and Miss Clara Blanche Watkins of Gaithersburg.

Mrs. George E. Lewis entertained the Rockville Inebriety Club at its bi-weekly meeting. The responses were favorite Bible quotations. Miss Isabel Kingdon read a paper on "Woman's Duty to Self and Family."

Cosmos.

A leading attraction in an excellent bill of varied vaudeville at the Cosmos Theater next week will be the offering of two Washington girls, under the names "Bernice and Hortensia," which is said to bear a remarkable likeness to the noted act in higher vaudeville of Muriel and Frances. The Ellis Nowlan Comedy Company, of eleven people in a great force in three scenes is expected to provide another headline offering that is unusually enjoyable. Al Harrington, a famous comedy juggler from the courts of higher vaudeville, will give his unique exhibition: Harry Bachelor, comedian, a melodious mélange of merry music, and Ralston and La Tour, an offering of refined and graceful song and dance, with incidental comedy. Still another act remains to be announced, the week concluding with the usual Friday weekly review of international events of the world and a series of first-run photographs of the highest and most enjoyable kind.

Academy.

The Academy Stock Company next week will offer as its attraction the ever-popular "East Lynne." Possibly no play ever written has had a stronger appeal to all classes than this great emotional drama, and certainly no play has stood the test of time better. In the cast next week the company's leading man, Fred Hand, will be seen as Archibald Carlyle, and the popular leading woman, Rose Cameron, will take the difficult dual role of Lady Isabel and Mme. Yvone. The remaining roles of the cast will be in capable hands, and the production is a scenic success. Matinees will be given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and the usual scale of popular prices will prevail.

Aborn Opera Seat Sale.

The seat sale for the entire engagement of the Aborn Opera Company will open at the box office of the National Theater next Monday. The season starts Monday, May 19, and during the time the Aborns are here many of the best known and best liked operas will be presented.

Miss Shreve's Carnival.

At the National Theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, starting at 8 o'clock, the attraction will be Miss Shreve's big scenic production and extravaganza, "The Palace of Dreams," as the carnival is entitled, in three acts and boasts a juvenile cast of 200, the performance including fifteen specialties. Miss Adrienne Shreve will be seen in the title role as Venus in "Echoes from the Grotto" and Miss Ruby Raymond will be seen as Countess de Morny. Master William Morrison as Prince Albi, Miss Louise Tebbetts as Spirit of Light, Miss Beatrice Grogg as Mad Queen, and Miss Dorothy Boyd as the Fortune Teller. Spectacular and electrical effects will add much to the performance.

"Way Down East."

"Way Down East," which has not been seen in Washington for nearly a decade, but which has proved one of the enduring classics of the American stage, has been selected by the Pol Players as the offering for next week, at which time the company will celebrate its 60th stock performance in this capital. "Way Down East," like "The Old homestead," had phenomenal success in every center of population in this country since it was first produced, nearly twenty years ago. This will be the first play to be produced at Pol's under the supervision of the new stage director, Edwin H. Curtis.

"Girls of the Gay White Way."

"The Girls of the Gay White Way" will be the bright and tuneful offering at the Gayety next week, following "The American Beauties." "The Gay White Way" company boasts of an especially large chorus, gifted with good voices and good looks, and equipped with a great variety of attractive costumes. The two-act musical farce in which the entertainers will appear is said to be new and breezy. Manager Fick announces that for the remainder of the season, while the Nationals are away from home every ball game will be given on the stage. The trapeze act in the matinees, and that beginning with the hour for the game the prices will be reduced to 10 and 20 cents.

Garden.

As a feature of the bill at the Garden the Niblo travel talks, with the motion picture illustrations, are proving popular. Today and tomorrow the subject is "France," the trip being from Paris to Monte Carlo, the lecture being by Arthur B. Price.

Friday and Saturday of this week the subject will be Ireland. All of the pictures shown in these travel talks have recently been taken and show views not heretofore presented.
